June 1952

Harvey Warner

Foreword

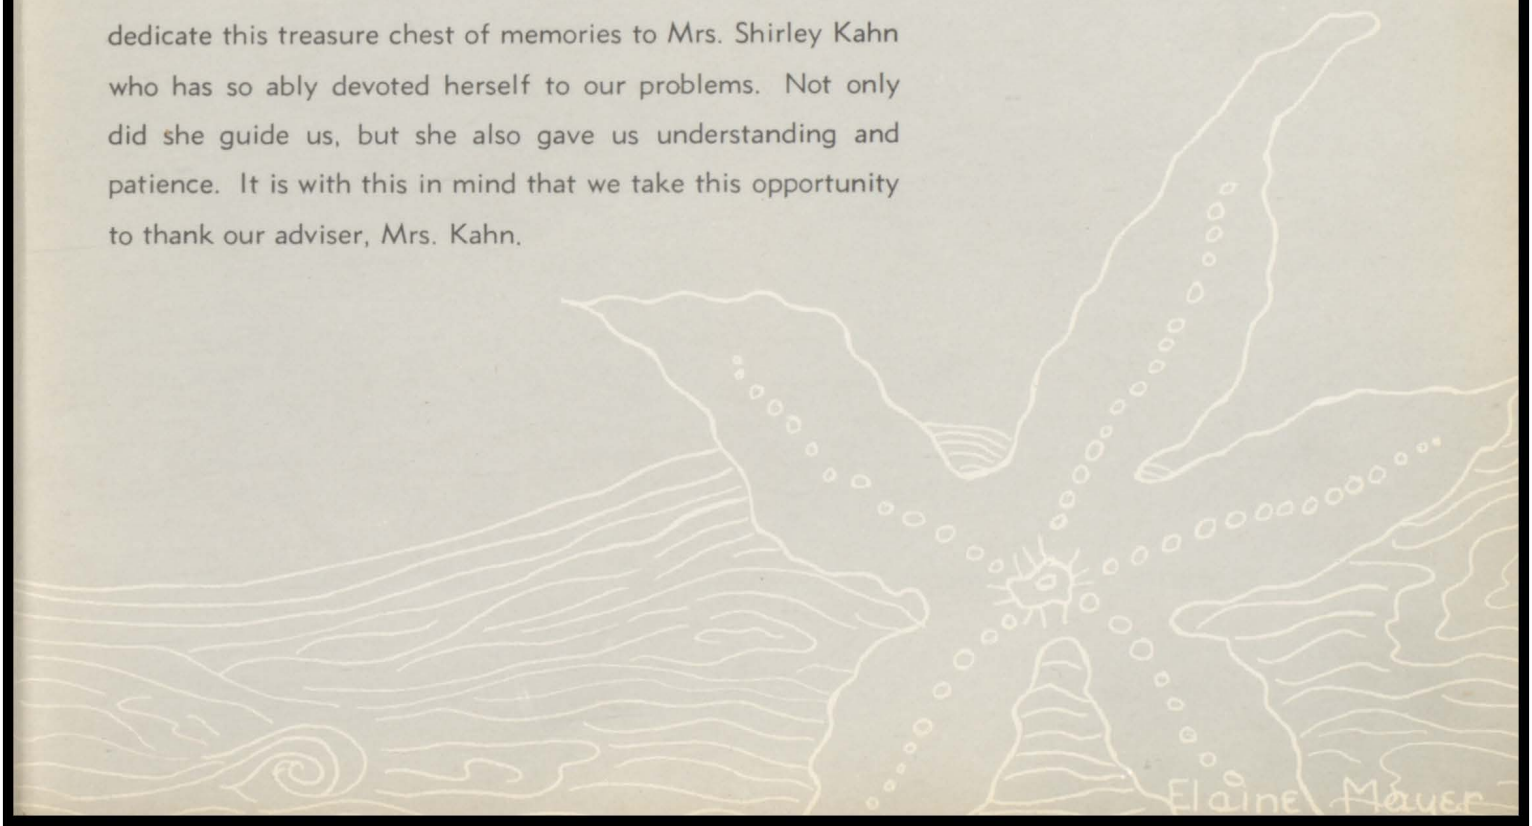

As we sail into the future towards the unknown, we recall with fondness the four years spent on the good ship, Weequahic. Through the qualms and calms of learning, our skippers steered us skillfully on our course so that we would be ready to take our posts capably on the ships we would man in the future.

Mrs. Shirley Kahn

Dedication

We, the Class of June, 1952, are proud and privileged to dedicate this treasure chest of memories to Mrs. Shirley Kahn who has so ably devoted herself to our problems. Not only did she guide us, but she also gave us understanding and patience. It is with this in mind that we take this opportunity to thank our adviser, Mrs. Kahn.

Michael Conovitz
Principal

To the Class of June 1952

When your ancestors and mine crossed the stormy Atlantic, whether it was 250 years ago or only 50 years ago, they faced a bewilderingly different land and condition of life from those they were accustomed to.

They had to adjust themselves so rapidly to those strange conditions in order to earn a livelihood, that most of them had no chance to acquire the finer graces, the polished manners, and the cultural values upon which we lay so much stress today.

The fight to earn a livelihood for their families and themselves was a tough and brutal one. Yet they did not falter. They met the challenge of their day. They wrested a living in the early days from a stubborn soil and in later times from forest, mine, and factory. They built our railroads; they laid out our cities; they constructed our factories; they spanned our rivers with bridges; they tunnelled through mountains; they dug our mines; they founded our schools and colleges; they built our churches and synagogues.

They handed down to us a rich material and spiritual heritage.

Today we are faced with many great challenges, both as individuals and as a nation. As individuals we must make ourselves physically fit to bear the burdens of living in a world of tension; we must make ourselves mentally alert and thoroughly disciplined to meet the challenges of rapid change; we must train and condition ourselves to emotional stability; and, above all, we must develop in ourselves a sturdy confidence in our strength and in our ability to meet whatever dangers and whatever obstacles we may encounter.

If we can add a knowledge of the distilled wisdom of past generations and a present understanding of our fellow humans wherever they may live, you and I can face the future with the assurance that as individuals and as a nation we will continue to build a greater and better and happier world for ourselves and our posterity.

Michael Conovitz

Constance D. Bowerman

To the Class of June, 1952:

"Good, better, best—
Never let it rest
Until the good is better
And the better, best."

In these words can be found a key to the enrichment of your selves and of the world in which we expect you to take your place as leaders.

For each of you, my congratulations and the hope that the days to come will be blessed and happy ones for you.

Sincerely,
Constance D. Bowerman

Assistants to the Principal

I recall that I predicted this graduation day for most of you about four years ago when you first arrived at the Weequahic High Annex. I can also safely predict good things ahead for all of you. At any rate, my best wishes for you influence my predictions.

First Mates

In presenting the senior teachers, at first we'd like to say
"It's been a pleasure knowing you, you're tops in every way."

Our sweet Mrs. Kahn of Room 108
As teacher and adviser, we think she's first rate.

Mr. Castelluccio is known as Mr. C.
He's solved so many problems for us in chemistry.

So petite a lady, you certainly can see
That without our Miss Vogel this yearbook would not be.

If you wish to parlez-vous Français,
In 227 seek Monsieur Gobeille.

Mrs. Jennings, so well dressed and neat,
Made all our English classes complete.

Of Mrs. Bingham we'll have fond recollections
Especially for her efforts in our class elections.

To Mrs. Hirsch who guards our class treasure
We leave all our thanks in the greatest of measure.

Weequahic scholars in Spanish and Latin
Owe much to their knowledge to charming Miss Patton.

Although Miss Russell does such fine Red Cross work,
Her duties as teacher she never would shirk.

For mathematical aid Weequahic students often come
To Room 125 where they'll find Mrs. Blum.

To our home room teachers who helped fill our needs
We leave these little jingles in remembrance of their deeds.

The Eve of Graduation

'Twas the eve of graduation when all through the place,
Every seat was filled, even each space.
The diplomas were piled on a table with care,
With hopes from all seniors, they'd have one there.
The sophomores were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of seniors danced in their heads;
Each graduate was dressed in a gown and a cap,
And had settled his brains for a long summer's nap—
When all of a sudden there arose such a clatter,
The ushers ran through aisles to see what was the matter.
Away to the pit they flew like a flash,
The orchestra had started its strains with a crash.
The music, o'er the heads of the entering class,
Excited the soul of each senior as he'd pass;
When what to his wandering eyes should appear
But the family and all the relatives clear,
Who whistled, and shouted and called him by name;
His mind wondered from whence they all came.
So up on the stage each graduate did alight,
'Till all were seated on this warm summer's night.
Commencement exercises began with a bound,
And were over before I could turn around;
The principal, the valedictorian, and the guest
Had spoken, as had all the rest.
And just at the end, brought forth was a scroll,
From which was read the students on roll:
"There's Hadley! There's Merkin! There's Centuori! And Portnoff!
Now Sorger! Now Shachat! Lief! Gorowitz! and Wolf!"
To the top of the stage, to the top of the class,
Three hundred and six students did pass . . .
And you heard as each friend fought back some tears:
"Congratulations to all and to Weequahic—Three Cheers!!!"

Introduction to Seniors

It is our privilege to bring to you
A show of the seniors of '52;
And aboard Weequahic, our showboat of fame,
Each of three hundred is a star of acclaim.

On the sea of learning so deep and vast,
From the aft to the bow and up the mast,
A lot of knowledge through some work and fun
Penetrated the minds of everyone.

And now that commencement has drawn near,
The time has come to leave this school so dear;
This Legend remains behind as our buoy.
While now to the future we look with joy.

A STUDENT'S PLEA

(With apologies to Joaquin Miller)

Behind him lay Algebra two,
Before him only a shoreless sea;
Terror loomed up in his heart:
Would he pass to Algebra three?

He said to himself, "Now I must pray,
For lo, the third cycle is gone."
When teacher quoth, "What shall I say?"
He answered, "Say, 'Sail on!' "

"Vacation time is drawing near,
To Bradley Beach I must be gone.
I cannot go to summer school
And so, please say, 'Sail on!' "

Then pale and worn, he paced his room
All night until the dawn.
He forgot his dread when teacher said,
"On! My boy, Sail on!"

IN MEMORIAM

Stuart Manoff

November, 1934 November, 1950

"And the tear that we shed,
Though in silence it rolls,
Shall long keep his memory
Green in our souls."

Last Will and Testament of the Class of June, 1952

We, the Senior Class of June, 1952, being of weary mind and tired body, do hereby bequeath the following:

To our homeroom teachers:

Mrs. Bingham—An automatic vote calculator.

Mrs. Blum—Convenient name plates for assembly seats.

Mr. Castelluccio—A medal for patience, understanding, and fortitude.

Mr. Gobeille—A parlez-vous and a yo ho ho!

Mrs. Hirsch—A faultless, simplified bookkeeping system for class dues.

Mrs. Jennings—Arrangements for a complete, round-the-world trip.

Mrs. Kahn—A quiet, sophomore homeroom.

Miss Patton—A robot to attend to all worrying in prom planning.

Miss Russell—A life membership for her dog to the Kennel Club.

Miss Vogel—Pleasant memories of the June, 1952, Legend Staff.

To All Teachers—An infinite supply of acetyl salicylic acid (aspirin).

To Mr. Conovitz—Our sincere thanks for helpful advice.

To Miss Bowerman—Our deepest admiration and appreciation.

To Mr. Rubinfeld—A three-thousand dollar share in gold mine stock.

To Mr. LaPenna—A new set of college catalogues.

To Math Teachers—The equation: Apple plus Crust = TT

To Science Teachers—A universal solvent.

To History Teachers—A New, Fair, and Square Deal.

To Language Teachers—Trips to France, Spain, Israel, and Germany.

To English Teachers—A ready supply of dustless chalk.

To Commercial Teachers—A life subscription to the Wall Street Journal.

To Prospective Politicians—Hadley's unchallenged 4A campaign . . . The famous "Vote for Honigfeld Because . . . " campaign signs . . . Friedman's revolutionary campaign promises . . . Seven vacancies on the O. B. A. Council.

To All Students—Esther Gordon's song-writing talents . . . Patsy Venokur's poetic touch . . . Judy Shiller's twinkling eyes . . . Ian Rosenstrauch's fins . . . Marilyn Cooper's charm . . . Myron Harkavy's be-bop specs . . . Fred Marech's rosy cheeks . . . Alice Rubin's impishness . . . Charles Rosenblatt's humorous tongue . . . Ted Taub's impetuous questions . . . Lenore Ganek's radiant, red tresses . . . Jack Wolf's amicability . . . Judy Petchesky's perennial pleasantness . . . Jean Gorowitz's "Weequahic Doings" column . . . Audrey Rubin's voguish clothes . . . Stella Goldberg's sparkling smile . . . Ann Reider's gift of gab.

To Senior B's—We leave our Senior A pride and arrogance.

To Weequahic High School—We Leave!

We take from Weequahic—The enduring patience and infinite sweetness of our wise adviser, Mrs. Shirley Kahn . . . the wisdom of the faculty . . . and many fond remembrances of four memorable years at Weequahic High School.

Journal of SEPTEMBER, 1948: We embarked on our voyage on the S.S. Weequahic on a memorable autumn day . . . Our course was somewhat dubious and the waters were full of uncertainty; but with the aid of Captain William Silber and his capable staff, our troubles were soon tossed to the winds like a spray of foam . . . It was off to the high C's for some of us who made a port of call at Carnegie Hall with the music classes and were charmed by this sample of choral and symphonic music . . . Comparatively new voyagers on the S.S. Weequahic, we all enjoyed being spectators at sports events; namely, football and basketball games; and when an organization known as O. B. A. sponsored dances in a huge stateroom, we faithfully attended, hoping to become better acquainted with some passengers on higher decks . . . Our ship pushed on through tranquil seas until June, and then a group of talented voyagers presented a music festival, highlighted by the notes of Bizet's "Carmen", for the enjoyment of their fellow passengers . . . Soon, with inexpressible delight, we cast off for deeper waters where we expected to board a larger vessel.

SEPTEMBER, 1949: As we entered the Straights of Sophomoreland, we abandoned our little tugboat and boarded a massive, impressive vessel with a labyrinth of corridors and cabins . . . Like a gigantic wave, confusion settled over our awe-filled minds . . . Suddenly, sneering, sophisticated upperseamen deluged us with elevator tickets, directions to cabins of a non-existent upper deck, instructions for us to go to the stern for rooms actually on the bow, and invitations to swimming parties held in a mysterious pool; but we found a ready compass in the form of small, orange books issued for a quarter's worth of seaweed . . . We were then provided with an adviser, Captain Kahn, who constantly proved to be our guiding light . . . In October, we docked for a while at the shores of Untermann Field to witness the dedication ceremonies and returned later to see the first football game held there . . . Returning to our ship, we were introduced to the complexities of algebra 3 verbal problems, foreign language conjugations, biology dissections, "Julius Caesar," keeping our eyes off the keys in typing, and gazing enviously at the lofty upperseamen.

SEPTEMBER, 1950: Now, after serving an apprenticeship of two years, we gained sufficient knowledge about travelling to navigate a course of our own in Juniorland . . . The first step consisted of selecting a group of commanding officers: Allen Merkin, Eddy Hadley, Loretta Portnoff, and Barbara Seligman, who proceeded to direct our course towards Seniorland . . . When we reached the port of 3A, half-way to our destination, the admiral's cap was placed upon the head of Gil Honigfeld, with the remaining officers continuing at their present steering posts . . . On April 12 and 13, members of the vessel had the passengers rolling on the decks with laughter at the adventures of the characters in "Junior Miss" . . . In May, Commander-in-chief Max J. Herzberg announced his retirement; and a mist of sadness pervaded our hearts when we thought of losing this friend who had earned our profound respect by performing his myriad duties so sympathetically and expertly . . . A fitting salute was rendered him in the form of a play, "Saga of A Wonderful Guy," which was presented on M. J. H. Day . . . As proof that a touch of the landlubber remained in us still, we withdrew from the ship on one bright June day to picnic at Grover Cleveland Park in Caldwell. Completely uninhibited, we revelled on land, eating marshmallows, singing raucously, and playing spirited games. Drooping with exhaustion and whispering in strained voices, we returned to the ship.

SEPTEMBER, 1951: It was with exultant spirits of seniority that we set out again, this time on the final lap of the journey with our new Commander-in-chief, Michael Conovitz, at the helm. Mr. Conovitz capably assumed his titanic responsibilities as chief officer and contributed his efforts to keeping our ship sailing calmly and smoothly . . . Assisting the steering of our course were Hadley, Merkin, Portnoff, and Centuori . . . All hands joined on deck on the afternoon of September 26 at a special assembly program to honor a visiting dignitary, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who enlightened us with her message about democracy. She advised us that sailing would not always be smooth, but that the bell-buoys of education, understanding, and courage would steer us to halcyon days . . . We were pleased to learn that some of our fellow-passengers were members of the S.S. Weequahic's football team, which had scored a success by winning the City Championship Award in November . . . As the ship plotted its course, voyagers gathered in the gym where the frivolous 4B Hop was held; and in our best attire, we enjoyed a "Sleighride Through The Stars." As the evening progressed, passengers departed for other cabins (including the "Rustic Cabin") . . . In January, many old salts left the vessel, relinquishing it to our care at Torch Day, when we promised to assume the responsibility of keeping the boat on an even keel . . . At a similar ceremony in June, we bequeathed our sea-faring responsibilities to a group preparing to take over our posts . . . The prelude to the climax of our voyage was a magnificent Prom on June 12 at the Terrace Room Cabin of the Mosque, where the shipmates met for an unforgettable evening of festivity . . . On June 18, 1952, we triumphantly reached the shores of Graduation, overjoyed at the completion of our cruise on the S.S. Weequahic, yet sad at the termination of so many wonderful experiences on board.

Barnacle Bill The Senior

'Tis only I, from Weequahic High,
Said Barnacle Bill, the Senior.

I've come to tell of a voyage swell,
Said Barnacle Bill, the Senior.

Four long years the ship's cruise did take;
And oh, what memories are left in its wake!

Annex days were of a happy sort,
Then I reached the Main Building—a far-away port.

The first two weeks I was all at sea,
Then the surroundings became familiar to me.

Up and down stairways got me confused . . .
To the third floor, up stairways had to be used.

I no longer paid for elevator passes
Nor looked for the pool in the gym used by lasses.

O. B. A. posters and signed petitions
Made campaigning fun for the school's politicians.

I began to see that I really was dense
When I got back rejected chem. experiments.

I practiced my typing so as to gain speed,
And when my nails broke, my heart would just bleed.

Textbooks were heavy, I soon discovered;
We were fined ten cents if we left them uncovered.

Teachers said, "Bill, I've a cut-slip for you.
Now where were you yesterday during period two?"

What luscious lunches were made in the galley!
Chow mein seemed to be right up the cook's alley.

Each teacher was great at detecting lies . . .
Gum never evaded those searching eyes.

Everyone knew that his best bet
Was to read the news in the "Calumet".

And when I heard my stomach's cries,
I'd buy myself some crisp French-fries.

I shuddered as Sagamores called for passes
Or requested detained slips when I was late for classes.

Three laps 'round the deck kept me in trim,
Sometimes 'twas four—on a teacher's whim.

Assemblies were great (don't be kidded)
'Specially when algebra was omitted.

I remember the baseball and basketball games
And the City Champs who brought Weequahic fame.

For absence, I had to bring a note:
"Excuse Bill, please; he had a sore throat."

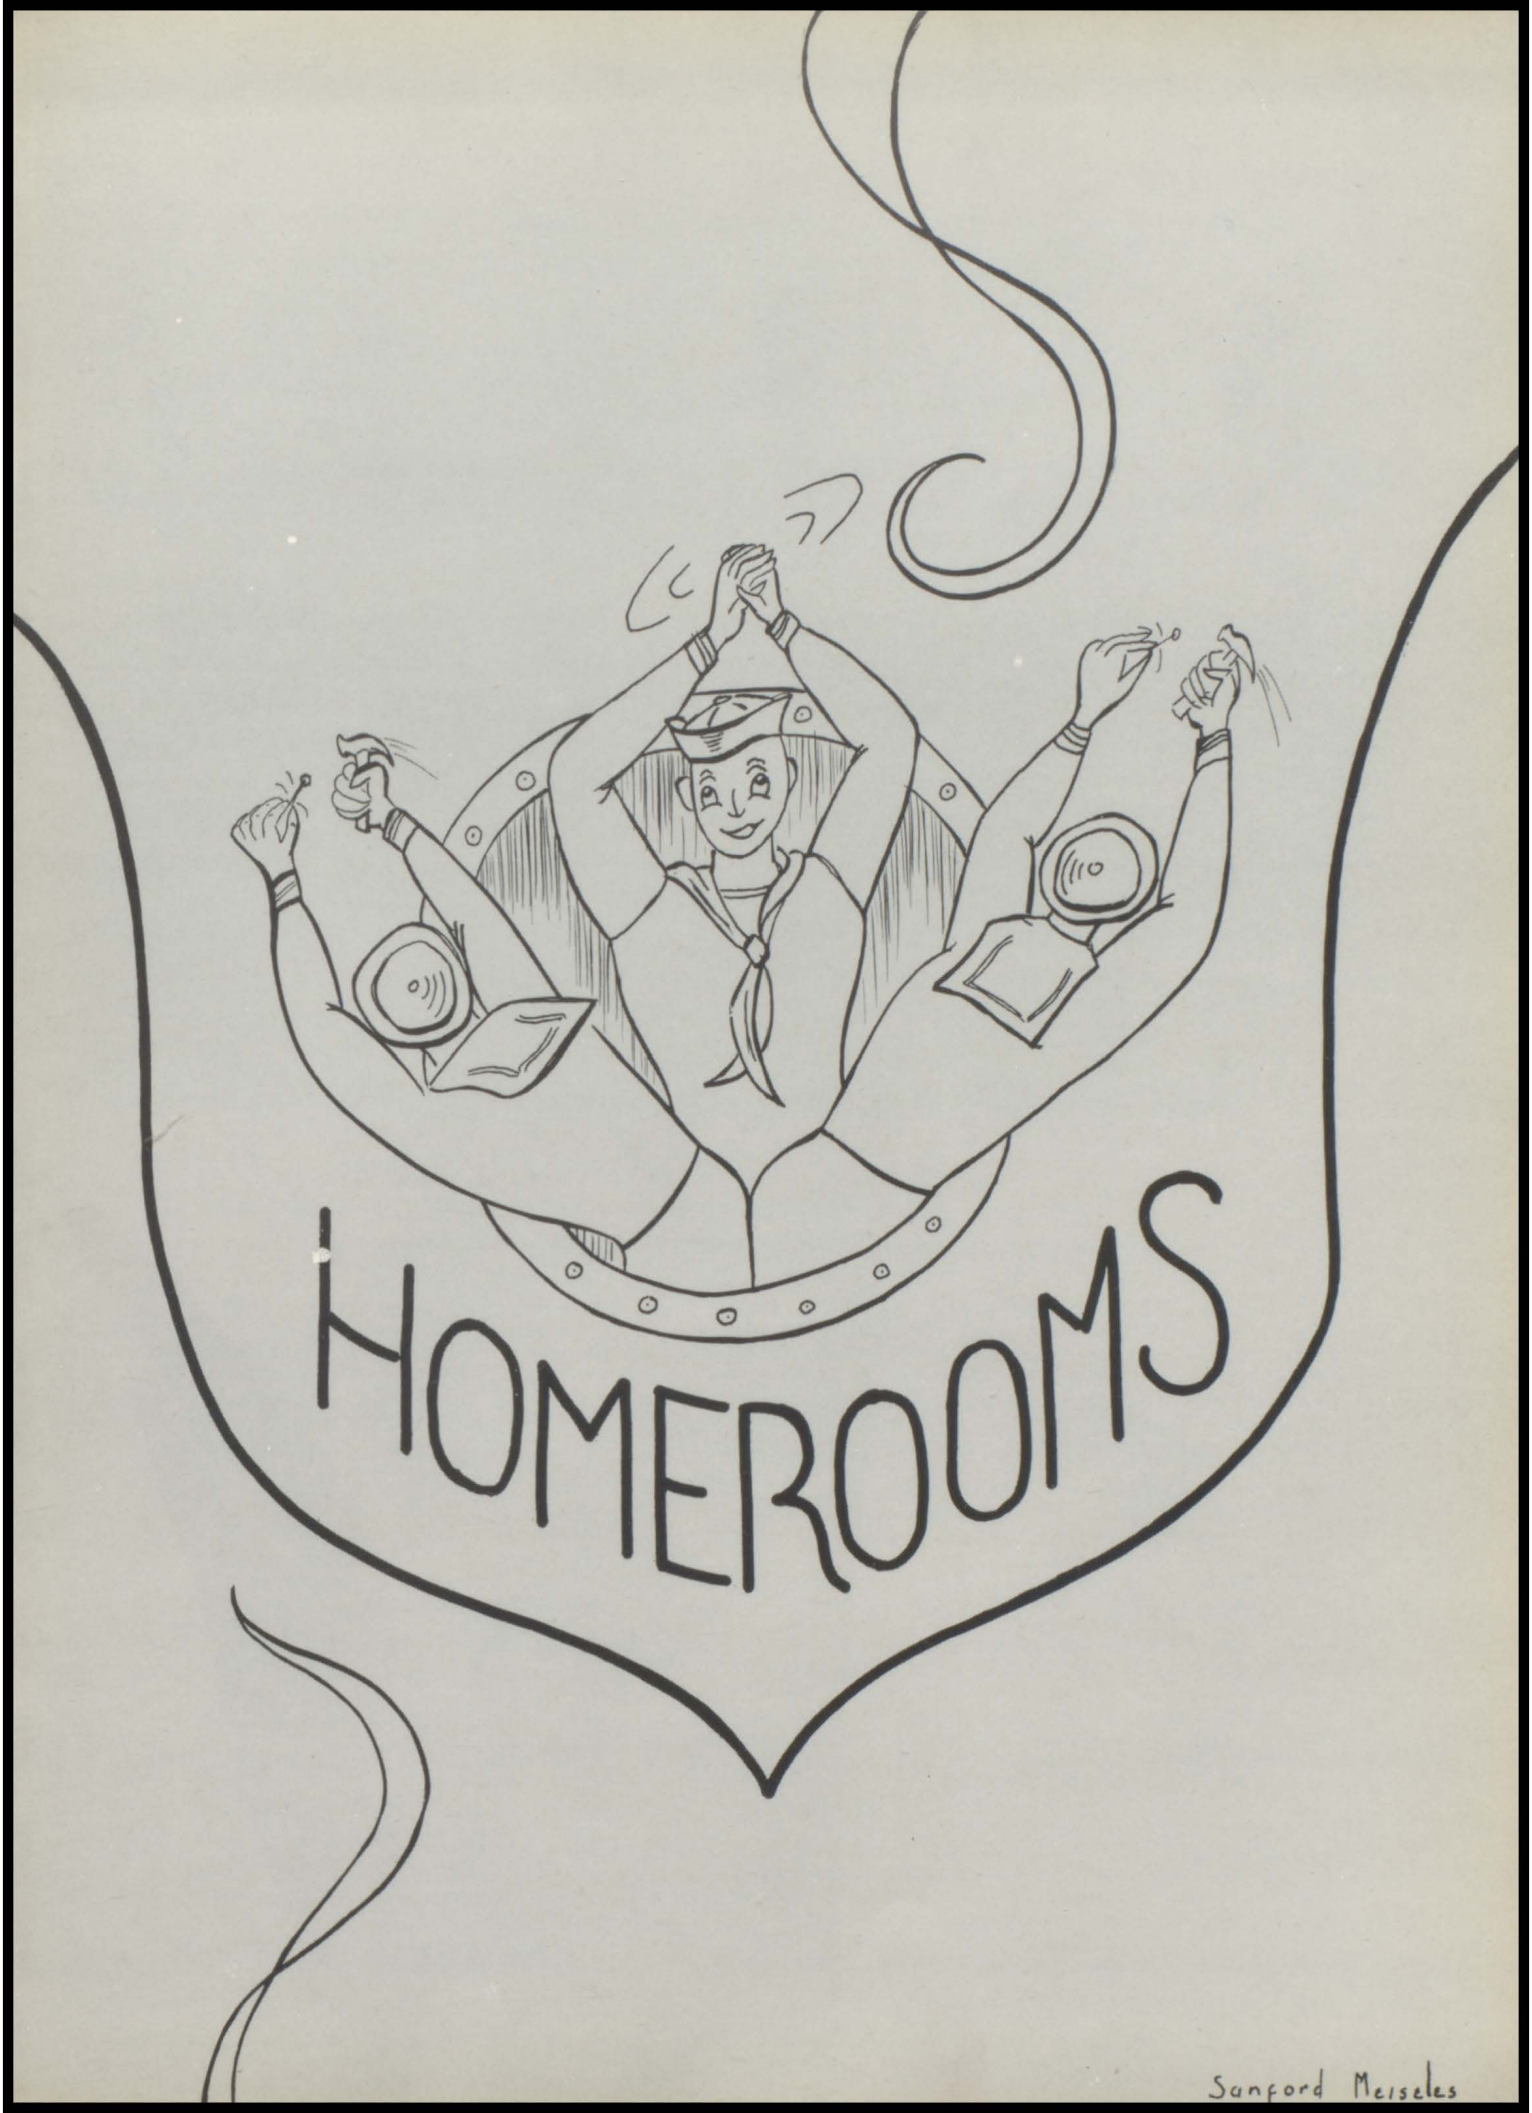

Each senior's heart started to sing
On beholding his bright new key or ring.

I began to chatter; I still can't stop
Bragging about the Prom and the Hop.

We were thrilled when the time came to pass
The blazing torch to the next senior class.

Nostalgia filled us on graduation eve,
When we knew that, at last, we had to leave.

'Twas a wonderful voyage, right from the start,
And I'll treasure each memory forever in my heart.

3A Picnic

Listen, my classmates, and you shall hear
Of the 3A picnic; 'twas last year.
Near the last of May in fifty-one,
Hardly had the day begun
When buses parted from the school.
The thought prevailed: This is cool!
But the day itself was quite warm;
And like bees these juniors did swarm
About the playground of the park
Where each student did embark
On baseball and games galore,
And with food who could ask for more?
The day was spent in rollicking fun
But soon the picnicking was done;
For just as the sun must descend—
Everything good must come to an end.

4B Hop

Another adventure of which you should hear
Was the Hop we had in our Senior year.
On the 15th of December in '51,
We spent a memorable evening of fun.
The snowflakes were beginning to cover the cars,
As we left for the "Sleighride Thru The Stars."
Mr. and Mrs. Snowman greeted us all,
As we entered the winter-wonderland ball.
The Melody Makers played heavenly tunes,
And we danced under a sky of paper moons.
In a corner on a table was ice-cold punch
And star-shaped cookies for all to munch.
Barry Dvorin, with his uke, started singing;
And we joined in, with our voices ringing.
Esther Gordon's, "How Do I Stand With You?"
Was vocalized by the Lefkowitz two.
Irvin and Elaine were crowned to their joy;
How happy were this girl and boy!
Records were presented as their prize—
And keen delight could be seen in their eyes.
As the last strains of music were coming to an end,
We said good night to friend after friend.
"Eateries" were our very next stop,
A perfect way to end our 4B Hop.

J. S.

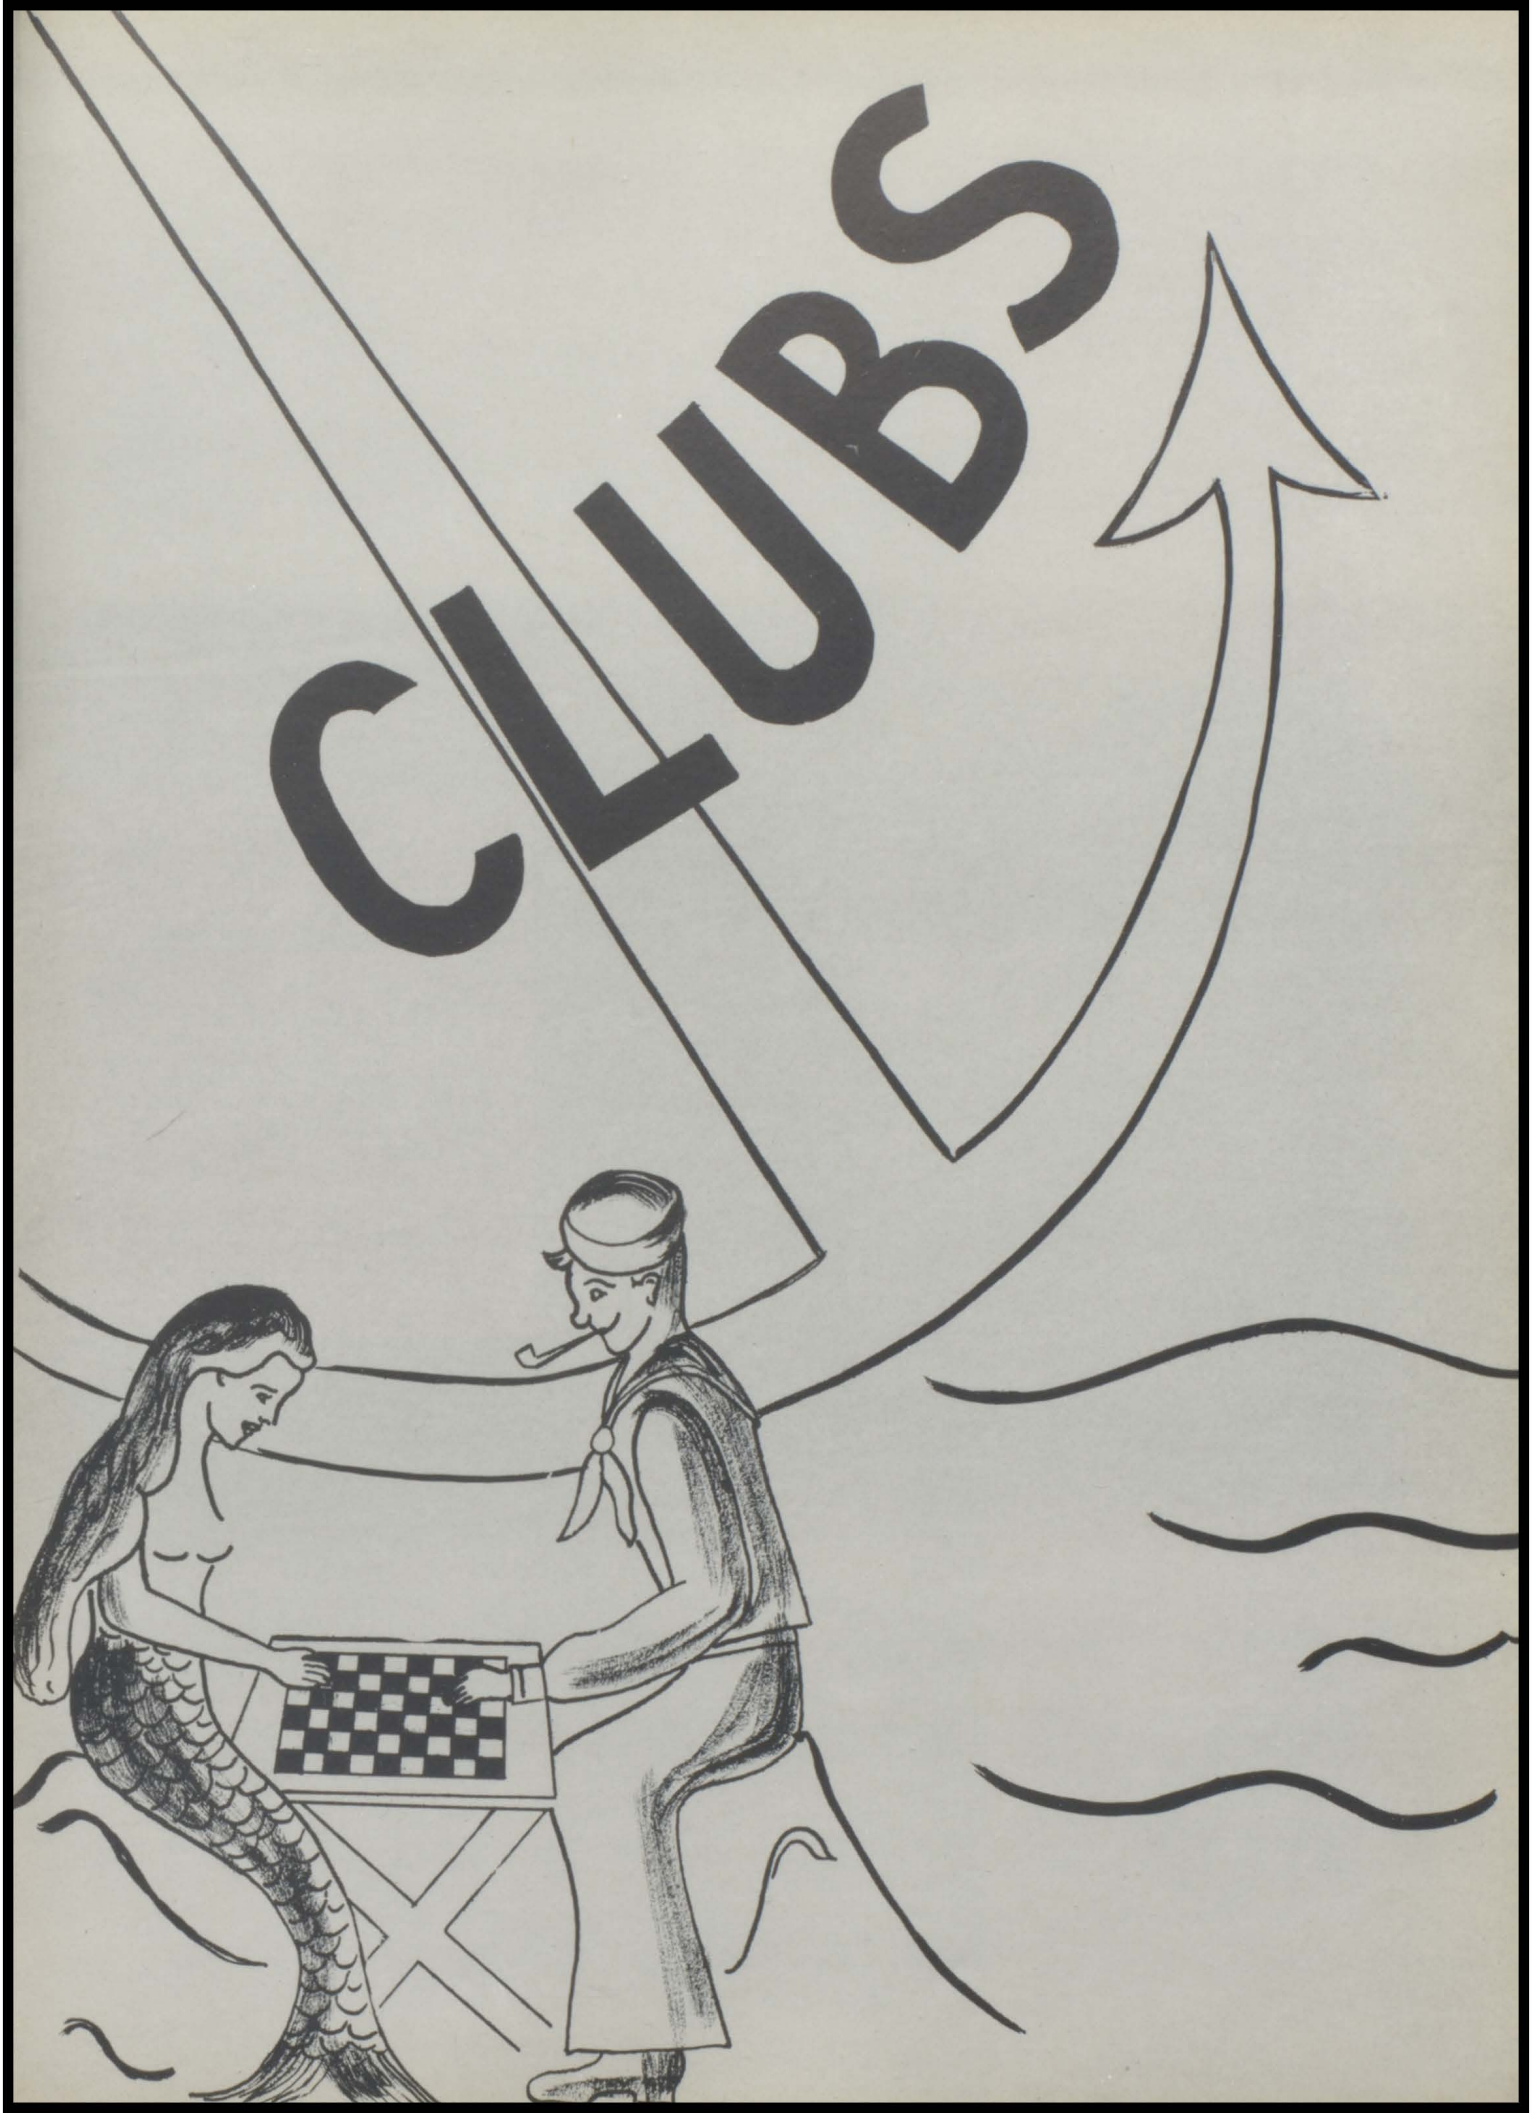

Showboat

As we think back to that wonderful day
When we presented the senior play,
We can recall many a classmate
Who made our show really first rate:
Judy Shiller, Stella Goldberg, and Naomi Sisselman helped to choose our hit;
Then "Junior Miss" became a show, piece by piece, bit by bit.

Harold Braff and Gayle Brody, respectively father and daughter,
Gave the audience many a laugh, which was the director's order.
Gil Honigfeld, who played a long-lost brother,
Proved to everyone that he was quite a dapper lover.
Irene Kaplan, the object of his affection,
Portrayed a girl of twenty-nine, almost to perfection.
Chester Moroze was wonderful as the boss who was always scowling.
Myron Harkavy and his antics had the audience howling.
Ian Rosenstrauch, Don Shachat, and Martin Sorger we'll never forget.
Hank Katchen sang so well he'll soon be at the Met.
Joan Lang, Elaine Mayer, and Gail Kimmelman, the make-up committee,
Tried their very best to make the cast look pretty.
Rushing here, rushing there, for tables and lamps and a bright red chair
Were Lita Appel, Maria Kluesner, Beth Khin, and Barbara Herbstman,
Marilyn Cooper, Judy Shiller, Judy Petchesky, and Barbara Bauman—
All these girls worked on props
To make "Junior Miss" the very tops.
Full of paint and hammering away
Was Kenneth Matula, who helped stage our play.
Each night there was a person in every seat
Proving our publicity committee—Herb Portnoff, Phyllis Gelbond, Hannette Weinberg,
Pat Venokur, Ann Reider, and Carl Greenberg, had made our show complete.
To Mr. DeLisi we owe our utmost thanks
For putting "Junior Miss" into the highest dramatic ranks.

Football

The usual pessimistic attitude was in the air on that opening day of the September football season. The Indians on the team did not feel quite sure of their potentialities. However, they won that day and they continued winning all through the season.

Finally, the coveted prize . . . the City Championship . . . was theirs. For the first time in the school's history, the Indians reigned supreme in the annals of City League Football.

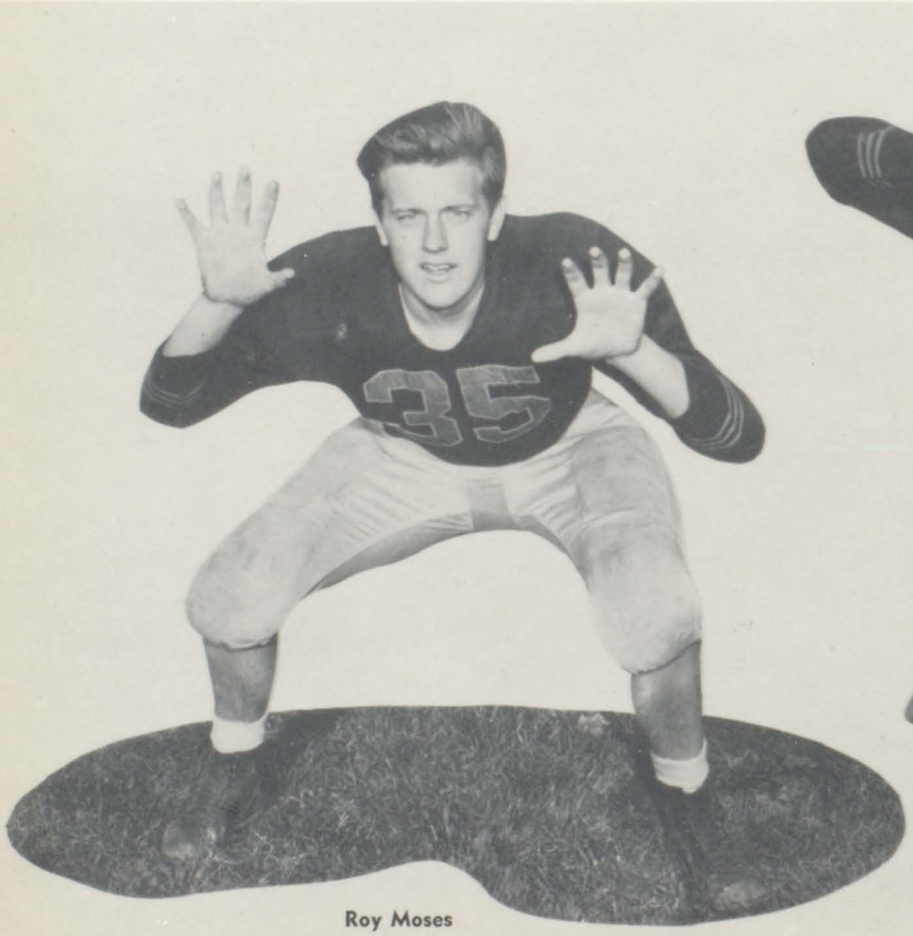

The question was asked, "What made this team so much stronger than any preceding Weequahic team?" Most of the fans felt that our boys had the spirit, incentive, and ability seldom equalled in high school sports.

The Class of June, 1952, was well represented on the miracle team of '51. Throughout the season the sparkling line plays of Myron Harkavy and the hard-running, fine defensive performances of Al Merkin were the team's guiding lights. Both players were picked to first team "All City" berths by the Newark News and the Star Ledger.

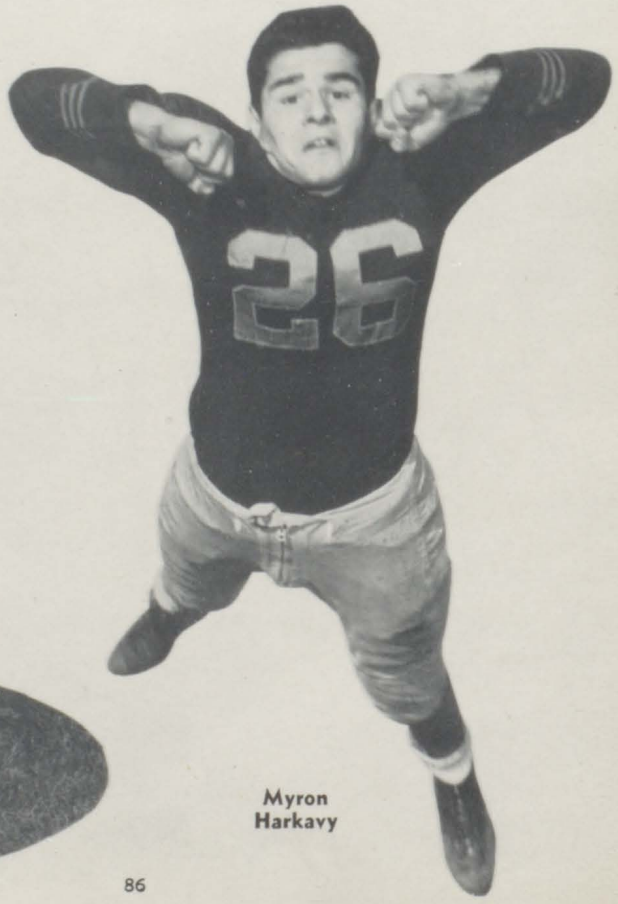

Norm Bruck, the fastest half-back in Essex County, contributed to many of the victories with his running ability.

The brunt of the battle was borne by the line-men, who included the following members of our class: Butch Chernin, Marv Frank, George Mahr, Roy Moses, and Milt Westrich. Gerry Capasso, a promising fullback in his sophomore year, was taken out of the line-up because of shoulder injuries.

Weequahic will find it difficult to match the fine playing of the members of our June, 1952, class.

The Class of June, 1952, was also well represented on other athletic teams which captured many trophies for the school. It is thus fitting and proper, that they be saluted at this time in our Legend.

During the past season, the hill and dalers reached their highest rank in the city meet since 1948. Under the tutelage of Coach Irwin Levin, Captain Irwin Rothbard led the team to fourth place.

Arnold Aronowitz, Noah Chivian, Neil Mayer, Sanford Rubin, and Irwin Rothbard are the outstanding members of the team who will be lost via cap and gown.

Track produced another addition to Weequahic's honors as Norm Bruck left all other city runners in the dust of his flying spikes, winning both the 100 and 220 yard dashes consistently. Weequahic again annexed the Seton Hall Relays trophy as seniors Norm Bruck, George Mahr, and Robert Schnittlich broke existing records in the mile relay. Others on the cinder track were Arnie Aronowitz, Irtzv Rothbard, Gary Adler, Gary Barr, and Neil Mayer, while Ian Rosenstrauch and Bob Kleinberg were on the field.

Our hardwood aggregation has shown its extraordinary skill and dependability by compiling an exceptional record during the last four years. Led by the hard-driving and unique jump-shooting of Allen Merkin, who has been awarded three letters in this sport, the team has consistently been a strong contender for the City League crown. Bert Marech, Jerry Soskin, and Eugene Lieberman combined to give Weequahic the rebound power needed. The play making and co-ordinating power of our "lil man", Arnie Aronowitz, was also creditable. Reserve strength supplied by Irving Magenheim did much to make a very successful record.

Contributing to our praiseworthy baseball team were Hal Osman, Eug Lieberman, Fred Marech, Chuck Hagel, Leslie Novick, Frank Serafin, Ike Rosen, and Eddy Hadley. This team was considered to be one of the most powerful city teams in our senior year.

During the years before boxing was outlawed at the Wigwam, George (K. O.) Mahr proved his ability as an outstanding pugilist by earning a letter, as did Bobbie Simon.

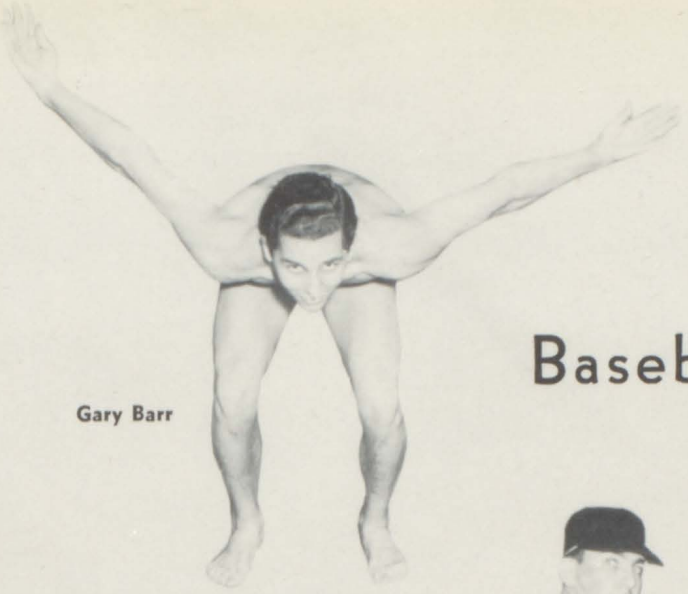

Bowling produced three stalwarts: Marty (212) Dinnerman, Bob (192) Kleinberg, and Fred (190) Marech. Aided by Mel Berner, Sanford Gurtov, and Bert Marech, the team performed notably, placing second and third in City League competition.

"Weequahic swimmers gain City Championship!" That was the headline as Captain Ian (All-City) Rosenstrauch, who was almost unconquerable, led the Indians to a City Championship in our senior year. Also representing our class were George Mahr, Gary Barr, Gary Appel, and Larry Lerner.

Among the various sports represented by the feminine athletes in the Class of June, 1952 are: baseball, bowling, soccer, basketball, badminton, and archery. The following girls have been awarded school pins in recognition of their participation in these activities:
Christina Centuori, Fran Kadziel, Barbara Herbstman, Barbara Plotkin, Ann Reider, Naomi Sisselman, Hannette Weinberg, and Suzanne Rosen.

Those receiving W's were: Lita Appel, Rhoda Gold, Stella Goldberg, Phyllis Goldberg, Lenore Ganek, Sandra Hailperin, Evelyn Margulies, Judith Mendelsohn, Carmella Mitterando, Edith Morein, Judith Petchesky, Barbara Seligman, Maye Stern, Judy Wnuck.

OH, CAPTAIN

(With Apologies to Walt Whitman)

Oh Captain! My Captain! My dear football captain!
Our season at last is done.
The team has weather'd every game,
The prize we sought is won.

The school is near, the shouts I hear,
The people are all grinning,
For now at last, unlike the past,
Weequahic has done the winning.

Come and see the twirlers strut,
To you the flags will dip.
Cheerleaders are gay, the band will play
For the winners of the championship.

DAVEY JONES'S LOCKER

In Davey Jones's locker room the athletes dress for sports;
They show their muscles and their strength in games of many sorts.
They sink those baskets, run the mile, and skim across the water;
Those City Champs in football games can score in every quarter.
The people will be cheering when a Weequahic boxer's winning;
The baseball team will try to get one homer in each inning
The girls can prove that they are not the weaker sex at all—
Just let them have a bow and arrow or a bowling ball.
They start to boast of victories but soon they will resume
Their showering and dressing down in Davey's locker room.

The shrimp boats have landed and the Anchor Inn boss is all through preparing his great cocktail sauce.

The choice shrimps are cooked and everything's right and Daddy has promised to bring shrimps home tonite.

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! Home, Dad, and thanks for the treat.
"Stashs" shrimps are delicious
and healthy to eat.

Mother is so happy
and smiles with delight
as she goes around singing
"No cooking tonite"—

So meet CAPTAIN STASH and his crew
at 105 Hawthorne Avenue—
